

JAMANDIC

Dominic McParland and Rebecca Clifford like 'homogenous colours, textured fabrics and comfortable rooms! They dislike 'fussiness, pretension and impracticality'. As well as domestic and commercial projects, they will also source antiques.

The Dutch House, 22 Bridge Street Row, Chester (tel: 01244-312822)

CHESTER JONES

Chester Jones was a designer and managing director at Colefax and Fowler for six years before setting up his own firm in 1991. His interiors are a relaxed combination of custom-made pieces, bold fabrics and clear colours.

240 Battersea Park Road, SW11

VIRGINIA HOWARD

Virginia Howard aims to interpret clients' requirements without imposing her own style. Her versatility means she tackles both English-traditional and modern projects, like her two latest – a home/office in Queen Anne's Gate and the offices of Pilkington, overlooking St James's Park.

116 Fulham Road, SW3 (tel: 020-7370 4101)

GAVIN JOHNSTON STEWART (BIDA).

Gavin Johnston Stewart was design director at Mary Fox Linton before he established his own business in 1993. His aim, he says, is 'to enhance the best architectural qualities of a building', with an approach ranging from minimal to sumptuous, but always eschewing excess.

Johnston Stewart Interior Design, 38 Tadema Road, SW10 (tel: 020-7351 7684, e-mail: design@johnstonstewart.com)

BRIAN JUHOS

Brian Juhos describes his style as 'vibrant, visual, sumptuous and seductive'. Current projects include work in Belgravia, Los Angeles, Connecticut and New York.

35 Chelsea Crescent, Chelsea Harbour, SW10, by appointment only (tel: 020-7795 0190)

PRUE AND CHARLOTTE LANE FOX

Prue Lane Fox (top) has worked in design for thirty-four years; her daughter Charlotte (bottom) for sixteen. They have transformed houses, offices, hotels and even boats in what they describe as a 'versatile and friendly' style. They often have up to thirty jobs in progress at a time and their work is mainly residential.

SYLVIA LAWSON JOHNSTON (BIDA).

With twenty years' experience behind her, Sylvia Lawson Johnston works mainly in a traditional style, emphasizing detail, texture and 'homeliness'. She is currently redesigning the drawing room at Ballindalloch Castle, Banffshire, and a large orangery extension to a seventeenth-century Scottish house.

ROBERT KIME (BIDA).

Robert Kime's rooms appear to have grown naturally – rooms with a sense of ease. With his team of restorers, upholsterers and painters, Robert will undertake sourcing single antique pieces or complete house restoration jobs. He has a shop at 121a Kensington Church Street, W8.

PO Box 454, Marlborough, Wiltshire (tel: 01264-731268, e-mail: rdkime@aol.com, website: www.robertkime.com)

GORDON LINDSAY (BIDA).

Gordon and his team have been responsible for the overall conception of the successful Daily Telegraph/House & Garden Fair for seven years (this year's theme was a tropical haven). They tackle all kinds of residential and commercial projects, from period restoration to what Gordon describes as 'modern international'.
